Sandy Sherman, based in Bellows Falls, Vermont, creates still life paintings using effects of light and color to portray tenuous scenes of everyday objects, vintage clothing and unique antiques. In a painting such as "The Monkey", an antique Steiff monkey is placed in a wallpaper lined box on a shelf. The monkey has its palms up and placed on its knees with a distant look, as if meditating. A red apple sits on top of the box, while a purple ribbon falls from its bottom and a red candle shows a waft of smoke after having just been extinguished. Sherman is a native of New Hampshire, and has been painting in the traditional manner since 1980. The artist studied for three years with Richard Whitney where she learned the basics of classical realism. She also studied with Debbie Crowder and Peter Granucci. She is a member of the Keene Art Association, Copley Society of Boston, Women's Caucus For Art, Academic Artist Association, and the Catharine Lorillard Wolf Art Club, Inc.

Canal Street Art Gallery is located at 23 Canal Street, in Historic Downtown Bellows Falls, Vermont, and is open Tuesday through Saturday 10:00am to 6:00pm, Sundays 11:00am to 4:00pm and the 3rd Friday of every month until 8:00pm.
